Daniel: Hi, Angela. Wow! That's a really pretty silk dress.

Angela: Thank you. I wanted to look extra nice for our special evening.

Daniel: Why?

Angela: Didn't you say that you're taking me to your favorite restaurant for dinner tonight?

Daniel: Hold on, I said it was my favorite, but I never said it was fancy. I hope you like it.

(later)

Angela: Well, I understand why you love this place.

Daniel: Do you really like it?

Angela: Yes! This burger is great! The bun is so fresh and light. They even gave me extra pickles.

Daniel: Yeah, and can you believe these fries? Nice and hot with just a bit of salt. And their large sizes cost the same as what other burger places charge you for medium sizes.

Angela: Everything is fantastic! This is the best hamburger I've ever eaten. I'm really glad we came here.

Daniel: I just feel bad that you were excited about going to a fancy place.

Angela: That's OK. At least we didn't go through the drive-thru.
