

Look at all the things you know how to say now.

Then fill in the stars to show how well you know these things.

I know how to ...

... express possession;

"Emily, are your bags in the car?"

"Yes, they are."

"Hey, guys, are these your bags?"

"No, they aren't. They're Uncle Mike's bags."

"Our stuff is outside by the car."

"Are your neighbors at home?"

"No, but their dog is."

"Whose bike is it, Mom?"

"That's my boss's bike."

The kids' coats are old.

... give information about location;

"Emily, are your bags in the car?"

"Yes, they are."

Our stuff is outside by the car.

Look at the apples on those trees behind that house.

He's there under that apple tree.

... express admiration;

What a cool motorcycle!

Yeah! But those brown jackets over there are beautiful.

... express surprise;

Ms. Howard on a motorcycle?! No way!

... describe things when going shopping.

"Look! These blue parkas are on sale."

"Oh, Dad! They're so ugly."

"Yeah! But those brown jackets over there are beautiful."

... make and accept suggestions;

"Let's have a picnic!"

"Good idea!"

... offer and accept something;

"Do you want some iced tea or lemonade?"

"Lemonade."

"Can I get you something to drink?"

"Yes. One coffee with cream ..."

"And a hot cocoa."

... talk about the weather.

"All this snow's really great!"

"Yeah, but it's too cold."
