WILMA:
 Drive carefully, Fred.

FRED:
 Don't worry, Wilma.
 I'm an expert driver.

WILMA:
 Look out!

WILMA:
 You're so clever, Fred.

FRED:
 These lines and hooks will keep the whole family in place. I think I just invented seat belts.

FRED:
 Fred buckles up. So should you.

ON THE ROAD

DARK-HAIRED WOMAN:
Oh great! We're in a downpour, and my windshield wipers
aren't working right.

BLOND WOMAN:
Yeah,
the windshield's all smeared. You can see out, can't you?

DARK-HAIRED WOMAN:
Barely. And the roads are slick too.
I don't like driving in this mess.

BLOND WOMAN:
I don't either. It makes me nervous. Let's pull off the road.
